

Guide Sheet: Fractional Chief Information Officer (CIO) Services

DYOPATH'S Fractional Chief Information Officer (CIO) Services provide technology leadership for organizations that may have a CIO role that is vacant or needs project-based executive expertise. We bring decades of experience and can become your organization's CIO, bringing world-class technology leadership to help you avoid technology gaps.

Why Clients Choose DYOPATH for CIO Services

World Class Leadership

We understand that managing IT and security has become more complex as new technologies, regulations, and threats continuously challenge organizations. You may be missing the needed leadership on your team to understand these complexities. Whatever industry you are in, the need for a CIO to provide the strategic direction has never been greater.

Immediate Engagement

Our advisory practice will perform an assessment to understand your organization, provide you practical ways to assess risk within your technology environment, and help ensure you are meeting regulatory standards and industry best practices.

Services Include

DYOPATH provides: assessments, strategic technology planning, policy development, business continuity planning, management of IT staff, technology due diligence and evaluation of processes.

Trusted Guidance

We focus on turning technology into a source of efficiency and competitive advantage.

Chief Information Officer

Long-Term Impact

We are committed to ensuring that our clients get the best out of technology and technology solutions. At the heart of our service is our accountability, our business first approach, and our long-term hands-on role to be part of your organization's success story.

Strategic Viewpoint

We provide your team with a single point of contact and a senior leader that is responsible for designing an IT strategy with the infrastructure and applications that will meet your organization's long-term strategic goals.

ROI

Our CIO services deliver a strong ROI by helping your organization decide which technology projects, services or applications will meet your organization's needs.

Contact DYOPATH Today for your CIO Service Questions